Signs "Pearce"—Says Charles Frohman Was Warned Personally Not to Sail on Lusitania and That Muentner Told Others Not to Board Ill Fated Vessel Before it Left Port.

London, July 11.—The check the Russians have imposed on Archduke Joseph Ferdinand's army in southern Poland and the additional strain which this has placed on the German General von Mackensen's army to the right has postponed, it is believed in military circles here, the threatened German offensive in the west, and there now is a possibility that the allies will be the first to take the offensive.

In support of this it is pointed out that the attacks by the German crown prince's army in the West, which the German press anywhere has announced, have ceased and what fighting is going on along the western front consists of artillery engagements, a few isolated attacks and counter attacks by infantry, which make little or no difference in the positions of the opposing forces.

The British, according to the French report, have repulsed a German attack. The German reports, however, allude to this as a British attack and Berlin says it is repulsed with considerable loss. In fact the French and German reports are generally contradictory in respect to what fighting has taken place, but from the trend of them it is evident that neither side has attempted anything of a decisive nature and it is believed here that it may be weeks yet before they do so.

So far as the Germans are concerned military observers assert they have not yet decided whether they will attack the Russians until there is some decisive engagement such as the capture of the Lublin-Chol railway, which it is asserted would have been in their hands before now if the Austrians advancing toward the city had not been driven back.

Reports from neutral sources are to the effect that to make good their efforts against the Russians the Germans are moving troops which were intended for the western front to the east. To a certain extent this seems confirmed by the statement that reinforcements have reached Archduke Joseph Ferdinand and that General von Mackensen also commenced an office which, however, broke down under the Russian fire.

While the military critics still are undecided whether the Russians will make their stand on their present lines or fall back to the Bug river, thus abandoning the fortress of Kanak and Warsaw, it is agreed that the counter-attack which they have developed has postponed for a time at least the necessity for any further retirement.

There is no confirmation of the reported Italian victory on the Corso plateau, but dispatches from Rome say that Italian troops are making good progress in their attack on the mountains around Trieste, which they hope to take before commencing the advance on the city itself, thus avoiding a bombardment of the town, which is largely inhabited by their compatriots.

Battle for Hill.

Paris, July 11.—After battling for 120 days for the hill between Bethune and Arras, the French and German armies are now in possession of all the eminences looking out upon the plain of Flanders. Lille, Douai and Cambrai are all visible from here. Every position along the broad national road between Arras and Bethune has been won except Souchez, and last night another quarter mile of trenches in the Souchez were torn away. The attack was made under a parading light, the French burning bluish white and the Germans greenish white, covering the scene of the desperate conflict with a ghastly glow.

The most desperate fighting has been along the short ten mile front from

HALLE IS ARRESTED.

New Orleans, July 11.—Hans Halle, arrested here last December for having in his possession a bomb containing forty pounds of dynamite, which he confessed to the police that he had constructed with the intention of shipping it to New York, where it would be consigned to a French line vessel bound for Europe, was arrested here late tonight by the police, who declared he would be held until the Baron Napier and the Howth Head had been heard from. Halle recently was acquitted in federal court of a charge of conspiring to ship explosives on an interstate carrier without properly marking the package.

New Orleans, July 11.—Declaring that he would kill J. P. Morgan and Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador at Washington, and finish the work started by Muentner, a letter received tonight by a local newspaper signed with the name "Pearce," warned New Orleansians who had friends or relatives aboard the British steamships Baron Napier and Howth Head to watch for reports of the vessels.

Both ships cleared from New Orleans July 8 and sailed from Port Eads the following day, the Howth Head for Dublin and Belfast via Norfolk and the Baron Napier for Avonmouth, England. It is believed that bombs have been placed on both ships.

The writer declared that it was Muentner who warned passengers on board the Lusitania before that vessel sailed from New York that it would be dangerous to make the voyage on her. It also is declared that Muentner personally called on Charles Frohman and urged him not to take passage on the ship.

After announcing an intention to kill Mr. Morgan and avenge the death of Holt, the letter says:

"Holt was my partner and I glory in the thought of his comradeship. We worked together ever since this cursed war began. Holt is gone but I am still here and I am going to carry on the work the two of us began. I am going to carry on the work with redoubled fury."

"The statement that Holt intended to wreck libraries and other such public buildings is a lie. The capitol is only building that we planned to wreck and we partly succeeded in our plan. But what we did plan, and what I am going to carry out, is the just idea to stop this country from continuing to the damnable, hellish, barbaric slaughter across the ocean. British mule ships are daily leaving New Orleans laden with livestock for the enemies of Germany, just as ships are daily leaving New York with munitions to slaughter Germans are almost daily leaving New York. Therefore this city furnishes a promising field for the work that lies before me. I may succeed in blowing up but one British ship leaving this port—I am going to destroy ten—but I am going to carry out this work, and whatever I achieve will be ready for Morgan. And after I get through with Morgan, I will be ready to share my pal's fate. I consider it a glorious fate."

"And Sir Cecil Spring-Rice. Do you want to know who Muentner was after when he went to Glen Cove? Morgan? Partly. The real reason for going to Glen Cove was Sir Cecil Spring-Rice. We have trailed Spring-Rice for weeks and we are going to get him yet."

"This country considers Muentner a barbarian—a crank. I knew him in

Couldn't Swim But Drowns in Effort to Save Girl's Life

Little Rock, Ark., July 11.—Although he could not swim, William D. Bard, local wire chief of the Western Union Telegraph company, unhesitatingly went to the rescue of a drowning girl in Saline river, near Benton, twenty miles from Little Rock, this afternoon. Both he and the girl, Miss Elsie Busick of Belfast, Ark., drowned in sight of a score of picnickers.

Miss Busick was visiting her brother at Benton and with several companions was bathing. She got into deep water and screamed for help. Bard was nearest her and started toward her immediately. Several boys also started to the girl's assistance, but she sank while one of them was less than a yard from her. In the excitement Bard was forgotten and when he finally was remembered, he had disappeared. Both bodies were recovered. Bard's wife and 13-year-old son were near when Bard was drowned. Bard had been an employee of the Western Union for thirty years.

Saloon Men to Fight Proposed Amendment of State Constitution

San Antonio, Texas, July 11.—Declaring that the proposed state constitutional amendment to give only to naturalized citizens the right to vote in Texas will affect 50,000 anti-prohibition votes, the retail liquor dealers decided today to launch a campaign to defeat the measure. An election to vote upon six proposed constitutional amendments has been called for July 24 and this particular amendment makes it compulsory for every foreign-born citizen to take out his final naturalization papers before he is entitled to cast his vote in any election.

Under the present system in line with the federal requirement foreign-born citizens may exercise their right of suffrage after filing their declaration of intention to become naturalized Americans. It was announced at the meeting here today that every retail liquor dealer's organization in the state is enlisted in the campaign to defeat the measure, which prohibitionists claim will considerably reduce their strength if it becomes a law.

Transport Crews to Be Dismissed But Vessels Will Remain

Galveston, Texas, July 11.—The United States transport ship Buford, Kilpatrick and McClellan, which have been held in readiness for use in the port of Galveston, will remain here some time longer, but the crews will be dismissed. The captain and several other officers and deck hands will be retained, also the steward and various other assistants, and they will remain on the boats.

Minnehaha Sails Halifax to London

Halifax, N. S., July 11.—The Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha, which put in here after the explosion and fire on board last Wednesday, sailed for London tonight. Officers of the steamer declined to state whether the forward hold yielded evidence to show that the explosion was caused by a bomb. While removing the damaged cargo stowaways found pieces of copper wire and other materials which were not part of the cargo. Members of the crew said some of this material resembled coils such as are used in time bombs.

Belgian Relief Well in Hand is Report of John Van Schaick

New York, July 11.—The Rev. John Van Schaick Jr. of Washington, D. C., one of the members of the Rockefeller relief commission, which went to Belgium and Poland in the interest of relief for war sufferers, returned here today on the Holland-American line steamer Rotterdam. Mr. Van Schaick said the relief measures in both countries were well in hand. The number of Belgian refugees in Holland, once numbering 150,000, has been reduced to 70,000, he said.

Verdict is Rendered in Smith-Suggs Case

Belton, Texas, July 11.—A surprise verdict was rendered in the district court yesterday in the case of Nelson K. Smith et al. of Waco vs. J. D. Suggs of Tom Green county, the amount claimed being about $200,000. However, the jury returned a verdict for defendant amounting to approximately $240,000.

There were sixteen counts referred to the jury for decision and all of these were decided against plaintiffs but one, the latter awarding a verdict for all transactions after 1911. J. D. Suggs, the defendant, is a millionaire cattleman of Tom Green county. The case attracted unusual interest.

Field Marshal French Criticises the Use of Asphyxiating Gas

London, July 11.—Field Marshal Sir John French, in a review of the operations of the British expeditionary forces in April and May, makes caustic reference to the use by the Germans of asphyxiating gas.

"I much regret," says Field Marshal French, "that during the same period under report the fighting has been characterized on the enemy's side by cynical and barbarous disregard of the usages of civilized war and by flagrant disregard of The Hague convention."

"All the scientific resources of Germany apparently have been brought into play to produce a gas of so virulent and poisonous a nature that any human being being brought in contact with it is first paralyzed and then meets with a lingering and agonizing death."

"The brain power and thought which evidently have been at work before this unworthy method of making war reached the pitch of efficiency which has been demonstrated in its practice show that the Germans must have harbored these designs for a long time."

"As a soldier I cannot help expressing the deepest regret and some surprise that the chief exponent of the chivalry of war should have stooped to employ such devices against brave and gallant foes."

Red Cross Says the German Gasses Are Deadlier Than Ever

London, July 12, 12:35 a. m.—"The Red Cross society learns that the gases which the Germans are now employing on the Russian front are denser, deadlier and quicker in their practice than heretofore," says Reuters' London correspondent. "Numerous deaths from gases are reported. Respirators are generally inefficient."

Sortie By Russians. Petrograd, July 11, via London, July 12, 1:13 a. m.—The official communication issued by the war office today says: "The garrison of Ossowetz during the night of July 9-10 sortied and destroyed enemy saps. In the Edvabno district we captured and blew up two enemy mine galleries."

On the front of Josefow-Bychawa the fighting continues. The enemy yesterday still held his ground on hill 18 and the Koverst farm and delivered vigorous counter attacks between Bystritzka and the Koverst farm. We repulsed this attack, inflicting heavy loss on the enemy. "South of Bychawa we took 300 prisoners, among them fourteen officers and three machine guns. "On all the other fronts there have been no important changes."

Baudin at Montevideo. Montevideo, Uruguay, July 11.—Pierre Baudin, head of the so-called "economic mission," sent out by France, was welcomed by the prominent men of the city upon his arrival here. M. Baudin is touring the South American republics, continuing the work begun by Joseph Caillaux, former French finance minister, who went to South America last year and then was recalled.

MOST CRITICAL POINT IN THE GERMAN RELATIONS REACHED

Formal Study of the Official Text Causes High Officials to Feel That Situation is Reached the Outcome of Which Can Not Clearly be Foreseen at Washington.

NO ACTION FOR AT LEAST ANOTHER WEEK

Will Be No Surrender of American Rights, But the Endeavor Will be to Place Responsibility for Any Formal Rupture of Friendly Relations on Germany. Ignoring of Lusitania Incident Resented.

Washington, July 11.—Formal study of the official text of Germany's reply to the American note on submarine warfare as it affects neutral rights strengthens the conviction of high officials that a most critical point in the relations between the two countries has been reached.

Not only do they feel the United States must refuse to accept the German proposals for the future conduct of American citizens on the high seas, but the failure of Germany to disavow the sinking of the Lusitania with the loss of more than a hundred Americans in their view has brought on a crisis the outcome of which it is difficult at present clearly to foresee.

That there will be no action by the United States for at least another week was indicated today. Several days will be required to measure fully the consequences and responsibilities which will be incurred by the American government in framing a new policy to meet the situation firmly.

Secretary Lansing will go to Cornish, N. H., within a day or two to confer with President Wilson. He said tonight he would study the note carefully and then communicate with the president. Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, intended to call on Secretary Lansing during the week to learn informally whether he can be of any service in the situation. No engagement has been made for a conference, but it probably will take place on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Today the official text of the German reply arrived and was made public. It differed only in a few unimportant words from the Associated Press copy which came from Berlin Friday night.

Few Variations Noted. The official version was delayed in transmission because of the time required for enciphering and decoding. Comparison of the two texts revealed that they were identical, save for a few variations in the German text. The Associated Press copy in transmission had omitted a few scattering words which did not alter the sense of meaning.

In all quarters here the reply was the single topic of concern. What the action of the American government will be is doubtful, largely in the sense that the means of expressing the ideas and purposes of the United States have not yet been decided. It was authoritatively indicated that obviously there would be no surrender of rights and no acceptance of the German proposal to guarantee American rights in return for arrangements to be agreed upon by the naval authorities of the two countries concerning the marking of the neutral ships.

There is no intention from indications of official quarters to force a situation, but in whatever policy is followed the American government endeavor will be to place full responsibility on Germany for any subsequent rupture of friendly relations. Since the Lusitania was sunk on May 7, there has been no violation of the principles for which the United States has contended unless the United States has permitted the German proposal to be included, and in that case the Washington government has not finally reached a conclusion as to whether a mine or a torpedo caused the disaster. In the submarine commanders continue in practice to respect American rights, discussion could continue. There were intimations, however, that in "best circumstances" the United States most likely would impress upon the German government the serious consequences which will ensue from any further violation of American rights as proclaimed by the United States already sent.

Lusitania Case Ignored.

The chief obstacle, it appears, however, to permitting virtually a status quo to continue while further notes are exchanged, is the treatment which Germany has given to the Lusitania case. The United States has asked for the return of the ship and compensation for the lives of the passengers and crew. The German government has refused to do so, and has instead offered to pay compensation for the ship and crew, but has refused to pay for the lives of the passengers and crew. This refusal to pay for the lives of the passengers and crew is the chief obstacle to the resumption of friendly relations between the two countries.

Opinion in German quarters here is much the same as that which has been reflected in press comment from Berlin, via London, July 11.—Paul Harms devotes the leading paragraph in the Tagblatt's weekly review to not over-optimistic comment regarding the differences existing between America and Germany. He refers to the American demand that ships be warned before they are sunk and declares that such a course would mean the sinking of the submarines as a weapon. "One need make no bones of saying that it is impossible to reconcile the German and the American standpoint," says the review. "That would mean for us the giving up of submarine warfare and if Americans will not see that we cannot do that, there is nothing to be done. There is no necessity for exchanging notes to reconcile irreconcilable differences. The exchange is made for the purpose of finding a tolerable compromise and in this direction the German note goes extraordinarily far."

Paris, July 11.—The Paris newspaper today published in full the text of the German reply to the American note. Such headings as "A Monument of Impudence" and "A Monument of Hypocrisy" express the attitude assumed generally toward the reply by the papers in their editorials.

The Echo de Paris has this to say: "The note marks sensible progress over the preceding notes, to cynicism the Germans now add persiflage. To comment seriously on such a morsel would be to permit ourselves to be flouted by the Germans; to laugh at it would perhaps fail in respect towards the Germans two victims—the Lusitania and the prestige of President Wilson."

The Figaro says it is embarrassed to determine which is the more remarkable, "the impudent cynicism of German diplomacy or the extraordinary presumption leading them to believe that the United States would be satisfied with such a reply."

The paper adds that it is puzzled as to why it took so long to produce "nothing save affirmations which seem to transcend irony, or at least to ignore the imperial government for the people of humanity."

Under the heading "The German Reply to America is a Tissue of Quibbles," the Petit Parisien states: "The German reply to the American note is a tissue of quibbles. It brushes aside the doctrinal viewpoint set forth by all the victors of the war. It is a tissue of quibbles. It brushes aside the doctrinal viewpoint set forth by all the victors of the war. It is a tissue of quibbles. It brushes aside the doctrinal viewpoint set forth by all the victors of the war."

The socialist paper "Humanite" says:

"The German reply exceeds anything one might have expected of the blindness of the Berlin cabinet. With tranquil audacity it throws upon the allies the responsibility of all the violations of international law of which Germany has been guilty during the eleven months. For the government of William II it is always the victim's fault."

The Gaulois says German diplomacy remains true to the system; accusations without proofs.

The Journal asserts that Germany seeks a means of exploiting the victory of the allies. "The German reply is a means of exploitation. It seeks a means of exploiting the victory of the allies. It seeks a means of exploiting the victory of the allies."

SUMMARY OF WAR

The German reply to the American note is in its entirety the secretary of state at Washington and after a careful study of the document Secretary Lansing may proceed to Cornish, N. H., Tuesday or Wednesday to confer with President Wilson. Advices from Washington indicate that the United States government will act with deliberation before deciding upon the policy to be adopted with respect to the situation which high officials at Washington are convinced has reached a critical stage.

Action by the United States, it is said, is not expected for at least another week.

The reports from the eastern theatre of war are meager in details and except for the fact that the Austro-German advance which last week was moving swiftly has received a hard check, little is known of the happenings either in Poland or Galicia.

The Vienna official communication states merely that there has been no change on any of the fronts. Berlin general headquarters reports a "local fight in the last few days" south of Krasnostav, which lies 34 miles to the south of Lublin, claiming that this action has been favorable to the Teutonic allies. The Russian war office is virtually silent. It is considered probable that the long and exhausting battle which has been waged along the extended line in Galicia has brought the opposing forces to a temporary deadlock and that they are occupied in bringing up reinforcements of men and munitions in preparation for a deadlier attack.

Minor attacks both by infantry and artillery have occurred in Belgium and France, but there has been no happening of importance in that zone. A special dispatch from the field in France says the French forces now are in possession of the heights overlooking the plain of Flanders. The losses on both sides during the almost continuous fighting between Bethune and Arras have been very heavy and this is merely one small section of the front which extends from the North sea almost to the Swiss frontier.

King George, who recently paid a visit to the grand fleet, has sent a message to Admiral Jellicoe expressing the belief that "whenever the day of battle comes the British navy will add fresh triumphs to its old glorious traditions."

That Hoodoo Number.

Recently several persons visited a big penitentiary in the east. Among them was an elderly woman whose sympathy went out to one of the inmates. "My poor man," said she in a kind and gentle voice, "how in the world did you ever come to be in a place like this?" "Couldn't help myself, lady," answered the inmate with a sad sigh. "I stacked up against the unlucky number 13."

"You don't really mean it?" exclaimed the visitor, who had all of the 13 superstition. "Yes, lady," returned the inmate, with even a sadder sigh, "twelve jurors and one judge."—Exchange.

CARRANZA SETTING UP A GOVERNMENT IN MEXICAN CAPITAL

SENDING OFFICERS OF HIS VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS ON SPECIAL TRAIN TO MEXICO CITY. DE LARA EN ROUTE FROM VERA CRUZ WITH HIS STAFF.

RECEIVE NO DETAILS OF FIGHTING

Department at Washington Has Heard Nothing From Agencies of Contending Factions—Message Briefly Tells of Fall of the City. Zapata Forces Being Pursued.

Washington, July 11.—Dispatches to the Carranza agency from Vera Cruz tonight announced that Carranza was sending officers of the various departments of his government on a special train to Mexico City to set up a civil administration there at once.

General Lopez de Lara, newly appointed governor of the federal district, started from Vera Cruz with his staff several days ago and is believed to have taken charge in the capital last night when, according to state department reports, the Zapata forces evacuated after making a last stand against the victorious attacking army under General Gonzales.

No details of the situation in Mexico City came today either to the state department or to the Mexican agencies. The department has heard nothing since the brief consular message announcing that the Carranza forces had occupied the city. The Carranza representative had a dispatch from General Gonzales dated at field headquarters, 5 p. m. yesterday, telling of the evacuation and saying a detachment had been sent southward to cut off the retreat of Zapata's army. The message said:

"Mexico City is being evacuated by the Zapata forces and the constitutionalists are occupying the capital tonight. There was severe fighting this morning in the outskirts of the city. The Zapatistas lost 500 men, four pieces of artillery and a great quantity of small arms and ammunition. Immediately after the morning defeat they began a hasty evacuation of Mexico City, fleeing toward the south."

"The retreating Zapata forces were pursued by a portion of the Gonzales army while a heavy detachment was sent post haste southward parallel with the Zapata line of retreat to cut across on their flank several miles south of the city."

Orozco May Decamp.

El Paso, Texas, July 11.—Whether Gen. Pascual Orozco, who eluded civil and military guards several days ago, will appear tomorrow to answer the charges of conspiracy to violate the United States neutrality laws remained unanswered today. His bondsmen expressed the belief that he would be in court at the hour fixed, but gave no reason therefor and no information as to his whereabouts.

Likewise Mexican sympathizers of Orozco and General Victoriano Huerta were found who voiced the belief that Orozco would forfeit his bond of $7,500.

It was practically certain that Gen. Marcelo Caraveo, Frank and his wife, under $50,000 bond each on similar charges, will appear before George B. Oliver, United States commissioner, tomorrow.

Although federal officials were reticent as to the course to be pursued, it was understood the defendants likely would waive preliminary hearing and be held to the federal grand jury next December.

The announcement of the occupation of Mexico City by Carranza forces made here today aroused no particular interest except among Carranza adherents, as the position is regarded by Villa as of no strategic value. General Huerta, when told of the occupation, said:

"It is not important which of the factional leaders holds Mexico City. The military situation at Aguas Calientes still was clouded by conflicting reports from Villa and Carranza sources. Each side continued to claim an advantage in the operations of the last few days, but close observers were of the opinion that the fighting was not of a decisive character."

Details of Capture.
Vera Cruz, July 11.—The official announcement issued at the headquarters of General Carranza today concerning the taking of Mexico City by the Carranza forces says:

"Some of the constitutionalist troops entered Mexico City and the Zapata followers fled. General Gonzales was delayed outside the city because the bridge across the Grand canal had been blown up, preventing the military provision trains from proceeding. "As soon as a temporary bridge has been completed Gonzales will enter. Gen. Lopez de Lara, the new military governor of the federal district, is preparing a decree for the protection of private property. Gonzales expects to provide food for the people."

The Villain From Vaudeville.
At the back door of a rural household a disreputable-looking hobo appeared who said that he was a vaudeville performer in hard luck.

The woman of the house agreed to give the tramp food if he would perform some wood. He retired to the barn. Soon there came the sounds of a man hard at work on the wood. Meanwhile the woman prepared a repast for him. In due time the meal was eaten and the tramp expressed his thanks and departed.

Shortly after the woman went to the barn and was amazed to find every stick of wood intact. Upon inquiry she discovered that she had been entertaining unaware a stranded ventriloquist. The man had simply gone into the shed and given his imitation of sawing wood.—Exchange.

A Reformer.
"You ought to be ashamed to take no interest in work," said the woman with the severe expression. "I want some wood chopped."

"Lady," replied Plodding Pete, "I do take an interest in work. I'm one of de champeen lecturers on de economic conditions an' de failure to bring de workman an' de job together."

"What good'll that do me?" "Lady, you jes' wait an' listen to de lecture I'm going to give you husband for not choppin' dat wood!"—Washington Star.

SURPRISE WHEN EVELYN NESBIT THAW WASN'T CALLED AS WITNESS

EVELYN NESBIT THAW

One of the most unusual chapters in the fight Harry K. Thaw has made for liberty was enacted when Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, his wife, who had been frequently referred to as one of the most important witnesses for the state in the jury trial of her husband's sanity, spent twelve and one-half hours in New York and then returned to her camp near Malone, N. Y., without testifying. During her stay in the city Mrs. Thaw consulted with Dr. Austin Flint, one of the state's alienists, and Deputy Attorney General Frank K. Cook, who had charge of the Thaw case for the state, obtained from a physician a certificate that she was in no condition to testify and went shopping. She bought a new white hat, with one feather in it, consulted with her dressmaker and went to her home at 23 West Eleventh street, after announcing publicly that she would talk with the newspaper men there. After the interview she jumped into a taxicab and was lost in the city's whirl until she appeared at the Grand Central station. When she strolled into the station Mrs. Thaw was chatting with three friends—two women and a man. She smiled at one of the newspaper men whom she knew and shook hands with him. She was vivacious and cheerful. She wore her new hat, a white suit, with dark stripes wide apart, white silk stockings and white low shoes. She said she had enjoyed her day in town. Then one of her friends said it was near train time and she called goodbye and hurried through the gate to the train. The accompanying photograph of Mrs. Thaw was taken just before the train left.

Germany. I knew him in America. He destroyed property and took lives when he knew that good would follow, never otherwise. At the time the Lusitania sailed on her fateful voyage, do you know who it was that warned Vanderbilt and the rest not to sail on her? It was Enrich Muentner. He knew what was going to befall this British liner. "Just as Muentner appealed to Frohman, Vanderbilt and others not to sail on the Lusitania, so I now appeal to worthy Americans in this country not to sail on the British ships leaving this port. If my warning goes unheeded, these Americans that sail on these British-owned ships must expect the fate that befell Vanderbilt and the rest. All of my plans will now fail. I am working with enough explosives to wreck this whole town. And besides this, I am working to avenge Muentner. I have a program to follow: British ships, Morgan, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, and then oblivion. Hall failed completely. Muentner succeeded partly. I am going to succeed completely."

"If there be anyone among the readers of this that doubts these words let him wait and watch: the early part of next week will witness the completion of Muentner's plans—that is, the beginning of the completion. If you will look up the records, you will discover the names of two of his majesty's ships that have just left port—perhaps never to return. One of them is called Howth Head, the other Baron. Have you relatives on either of these ships? If you have, I feel sorry for you if you are an American. If you are a subject of His Majesty, I congratulate myself. Watch the career of some of these ships please."—PEARCE.

Government Issues Warnings.
Washington, July 11.—Warnings to look out for bombs concealed in their holds were flashed tonight from the naval wireless station at Arlington to two ships at sea which sailed from New Orleans July 8.

Both the vessels, the British steamships Howth Head and Baron Napier, sailed with cargoes of mules for the British army July 8 and sailed the next day, the former for Dublin and Belfast via Norfolk and the latter direct for Avonmouth.

Sending of the warning was ordered by Secretary Daniels upon receipt of a telegram from a New Orleans newspaper saying a letter to that paper signed "Pearce" indicated that explosives had been placed aboard those vessels. The radio message was broadcast over the sea and even if it is not picked up directly by the Howth Head or Baron Napier some other ship in the neighborhood may relay it. Naval officers think responses may be caught by some of the wireless stations along the Atlantic coast tomorrow.

NEWSPAPER ADS LEAD ALL.
$250,000,000 is Annually Spent in Daily and Weekly Press.

Newspaper advertising leads all other forms of printed salesmanship, delegates to the newspaper conference of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, said that newspapers of the United States carry $250,000,000 worth of advertising annually.

"This is more than 40 per cent of all the money spent in all forms of advertising and is over four times as much as that carried by the nearest competing medium," said Mr. Thompson.

Saving a Penny.
Johnny's mother was tired of having her tablecloths stained. So she instituted a fine of a penny for every stain.

During tea a few days later Johnny was observed rubbing his rather grimy fingers very hard on the cloth beside his cup and saucer. "Johnny, what on earth are you doing?" asked his mother in surprise. "You'll soil the tablecloth."

"Oh, no, I won't," replied the youngster. "I'm just trying to rub two spots into one."—Exchange.

James M. Sullivan Back to America With His Family

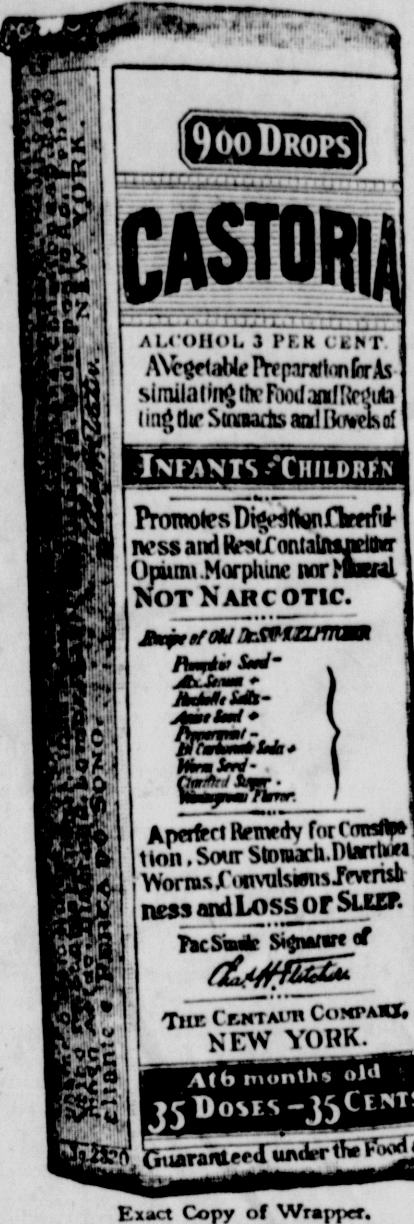

JAMES M. SULLIVAN

James Mark Sullivan, American minister to Santo Domingo, whose official actions were investigated last against him, arrived in New York from Santo Domingo aboard the Clyde liner Iroquois. No action as yet has been taken by the state department as a result of the investigation, but it is regarded as significant that the minister has brought his family back to the states with him and is accompanied by forty-six pieces of baggage. The only word that could be extracted from Sullivan as to his affairs was the information that he is going to Washington to report to Sullivan's trip to Washington will give him the chance to make personal explanations of many things charged by W. W. Vick, formerly receiver general of customs for the Dominican republic. The accompanying picture of Sullivan was taken on his arrival in New York City.

China.
The total area of China is easily estimated at 4,278,352 square miles. A census of the kind taken in western nations has never been attempted in China, and the nearest approach to a reliable estimate is probably the census of households, not individuals, taken by the Chinese minister of the interior in 1910. Assuming 5.5 persons to a household, which by a test census in various parts of the country was found to be a fair average, the population totaled 331,000,000, including 1,500,000 as the probable population of Tibet.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. able or even have the honest purpose to checkmate the latter probability. "We must assume," he continues, "that the leading German diplomats are convinced they can assume responsibility for the proposal made to America. For us it only remains to have clearly its scope and to hope that the other side will appreciate the greatness of the concession for which the German government has declared itself ready. The more reservedly we await in this hope the Americans are the better will the cause be served."

Wilson Gives Consideration.
Cornish, N. H., July 11.—President Wilson since yesterday has been giving careful consideration to Germany's latest note on submarine warfare. He is believed to have mapped out in a general way the next steps to be taken by the United States, though there will be no final decision until the situation has been fully discussed with the cabinet.

Getting Some Results.
One day Luther Burbank was walking in his garden, relates the Ladies' Home Journal, when he was accosted by an officious acquaintance who said: "Well, what are you working on now?" "Trying to cross an eggplant and milkweed," said Mr. Burbank. "And what under heaven do you expect to get from that?" Mr. Burbank calmly resumed his walk. "Custard pie," he said.

It now seems probable the president will be back in Washington in time for the cabinet meeting next Friday. Originally it had been planned to have Secretary Lansing come to Cornish tomorrow, bringing the official text of the German note, with a view to drafting the reply here. This was changed because data at the state department must be at hand when the writing of the reply is undertaken. So the note was dispatched from Washington as soon as it was decided today and the president will get into communication with Secretaries Lansing and Tamm tomorrow regarding the advisability of the former's coming here. It may be that the secretary of state will make the trip Tuesday or Wednesday and return with the president.

No inkling has been given of what Mr. Wilson thinks should be the policy of the United States in view of what officials consider the unresponsive and unsatisfactory nature of the German note.

CHEAP INTEREST AND WAREHOUSING.

Our esteemed neighbor, the Hamilton Herald, declares that the question of a cheap rate of interest on money advanced to help take care of the cotton crop is more essential than the mere fact of a warehouse in which to store that cotton. While we are not in a position to state what a proper rate of interest would be, we do know that the money loaned must be cheap in order to make the proposed loans advantageous to the farmers, the ones whom the loans aim primarily to benefit.

Two great difficulties contributed to the failure of the Wade loan scheme last year, the excessive amount of red tape involved and the high rate of interest required. The farmers found by the time they complied with all the requirements and paid all the interest that they could not come out clear on the transaction and the Wade scheme, though well-intentioned, fell through.

Col. John N. Simpson of Dallas suggests that the federal reserve bank at Dallas ought to be able to furnish farmers money on their cotton at 5 per cent. Practical bankers are apt to believe this rate too low. But in view of the fact that the farmer must pay warehouse charges and insure his cotton, it remains certain that he cannot afford to pay a high rate of interest on the money that is advanced him.

Bankers will contend that inasmuch as they must assume the whole responsibility, as member banks, to the federal reserve bank for money advanced on cotton that they must have a reasonable return for their trouble and risk involved. But they should bear in mind that inasmuch as the success of the holding plan means success for every other line of business in this section of the country the cotton loans should be negotiated on a narrower margin than ordinary transactions. The bankers of Texas have taken the initiative in encouraging the building of cotton warehouses in the state so as to make the loans through the federal reserve bank available. These same bankers have an opportunity to further demonstrate their unselfishness and business foresight by arranging such a low rate of interest as will make the loans attractive and the whole plan a success.

There are 108 colleges in the United States exclusively for women, with an enrollment of more than 20,000. And not a college student was found among the 3,329 women prisoners investigated by a government commission.

We have little indignation against the negro minister and barber, who kissed and hugged a white girl in St. Louis while he was treating her scalp. There are plenty of establishments conducted by white persons where the young woman could have obtained tonsorial service.

The Corpus Christi Caller, in referring to the action of some of the hotels, restaurants, rooming houses and places of recreation in doubling the prices charged the visitors at the recent Fourth of July celebration in that city, employs such words as "systematic robberies," "straight hold-ups," "gouging their victims unmercifully," "brazen greed" and "exploited." That is hard language to use about one's home town, but we are confident the offense justified it or the Caller would not have used it. Criticism of this character is a very unpleasant duty for a paper, but where the public weal demands it we are always glad to see a paper rise to the occasion and administer the rebuke.

GERMAN REPLY DISAPPOINTS.

In view of the state of public opinion in Germany, the Berlin reply to the last American note, evasive and unsatisfactory as it is, is not surprising. We could not expect a people that publicly celebrated the sinking of the Lusitania a few weeks ago, and then scorned America for its protest against such an outrage, to promptly repent of its error and promise not to repeat it again. Had the German foreign office been able to disregard German public opinion an answer satisfactory to the United States would doubtless have been framed, for we cannot conceive how that office would wilfully incur the displeasure of this country, but under present circumstances, where it appears the viewpoint of the German people and that of the American people cannot be reconciled, the foreign office and the war lords must give the preference to the will of their own people.

Refusing to assume responsibility for the Lusitania disaster and giving no assurances that such outrages will not be committed again should the occasion arise, Germany fails entirely to meet the principal issue raised in the American note, and leaves this country with the only alternative, it appears, of a final declaration of its position on the rights of American citizens on the high seas, and the holding of Germany to a strict accountability for any violation of those rights.

We hardly anticipate any such crisis, for Germany has already modified her submarine warfare following the Lusitania tragedy. But it appears that the German government is willing to do more in reality than it is ready to commit itself to in writing. In other words, the government is willing to go a little further in meeting the American demands, so far as actual practice is concerned, than the German people are willing to go in theory. For while there is no disavowal of the assault on the Lusitania, no assurance of reparation of any kind, and no guarantee against the repetition of such a disaster, it is notable that no summarizing attacks, offensive to the United States have occurred since the Lusitania was sunk, and we do not anticipate that any more will be made.

Germany's suggestion that the commander of the submarine did not think the Lusitania would sink so suddenly—giving the passengers a chance to escape—is too silly to merit consideration and is a lame after-thought devised in an effort to bolster up an untenable position, while the contention that the sins of England have justified the sins of Germany is also unworthy of consideration. Germany ignores all of her past sins—even refuses to concede that she has committed sin—and then comes and asks this country to enter into a bargain with her in regard to her good conduct in the future, the contract which she proposes throwing the responsibility upon this country.

We are no nearer a settlement of the controversy than we were at the beginning. We do not know what the president's attitude will be. He may deem that the time has come to carry out his promise to "omit no word or act" necessary to secure compliance with the rules which must be observed if the lives and liberties of American citizens are to be safeguarded. But he has already demonstrated his ability to deal with the situation adequately and while the majority of the American people are disappointed in the German reply they are perfectly content to leave the matter in the hands of the cool-headed occupant of the white house.

THRIFT AND HAPPINESS.

Dennis Tierney was a ranch hand all his life. When he recently died he left $20,000. William Wayne Belvin inherited $600,000 and has just been sentenced to one day in jail as a vagrant. The one saved his money, the other squandered it, observes the San Francisco Chronicle.

They are typical. There is a continuous procession of the thrifty upward into the ranks of the well to do or rich alongside of a similar procession downward into the poorhouses and jails.

There is a cult which despises thrift, holds that vagrancy and crime are a necessary result of our civilization, that a man is a fool to save, because since society is responsible for his condition society owes him a living.

And yet it is self-evident to those who think, and ought to be self-evident to all, that if society is responsible for the condition of Belvin, who is in jail, it was equally responsible for that of Tierney, who died and left $20,000. The two were under the same social influences, and one cannot in reason say that the same social influences can produce opposite results.

PROMOTING HEALTH IN PHILIPPINES.

A new Philippine health law, creating a service similar in organization to that of the United States public health service, became effective July 1. This legislation provides for a health body, which will have supervision over all matters of sanitation in the Philippine Islands. Probably no greater compliment has ever been paid the United States public health service than that of modeling after it the Philippine organization.

The service as contemplated is to consist of a director and assistant, chiefs of divisions, medical inspectors, and senior and junior surgeons. These officers are to be commissioned by the Philippine government, are to hold office during good behavior, and cannot be dismissed without cause. In other words, they will be independent in action and entirely free from political influences. All appointments and promotions are subject to physical and professional examinations and salaries are regulated by length of service.

The administration of the health laws of the respective provinces and all medical, surgical and sanitary work of a public nature, will be supervised by this body. The director of health is to be appointed by the governor general, the present incumbent, Surgeon John D. Long of the United States public health service, being retained. An advisory council of hygiene is provided, to consist of seven representative members, appointed largely from educational institutions.

The salaries of the members are to be merely nominal. Sanitary engineers and technical experts will be employed. For the purposes of administration, the provinces are divided into sanitary divisions which may be composed of several municipalities.

Funds for health purposes are to be raised in a most novel manner. Provincial boards and municipalities are required to set aside not less than 5 per cent nor more than 10 per cent from their general funds, these amounts to be devoted to sanitation and carrying out the purposes of the act. Balances which accumulate from year to year are to be used for establishing hospitals and benevolent institutions. This forever prevents a niggardly policy in making health appropriations and places the man before the dollar for all time.

The administration of the law will be observed with much interest by officials in this country. The powers conferred greatly exceed those possessed by our own health organizations, and jurisdiction is extended over all matters which have a definite bearing upon physical welfare.

A NEW CURE FOR HUMAN ILLS.

We have been taught to consider Nebuchadnezzar a wretched offender, who was turned out to a long course of grazing as a punishment for his sins, and as an unfortunate whose sad estate must awaken pity even among the vindictively pious, declares the Baltimore Sun.

But if what some of the doctors are saying about the medical virtues of alfalfa is true, the Babylonian king was merely several thousand years in advance of his times, and instead of suffering for his offenses was really engaged in a scientific method of restoring his health.

Alfalfa is well known to the farmer as a renewer of worn-out soils, but it remained for the doctors to discover that it is also a builder up of exhausted human vigor.

The thrifty agriculturist may be able to get a profitable "tip" from this theory, and by starting a sanatorium in every alfalfa field, to combine patients with pastures, and to feel like a philanthropist while putting dollars in his pockets and giving new life to land and to men. Of course, we don't vouch for this cure, and hay, which is a bulky article, seems a strange medical commodity for homeopaths to recommend. Yet Dr. Nebuchadnezzar's experience may be cited in its support; and if he were a homeopathist, the medical school to which he belonged may claim with pride priority of demonstration of the truth that all flesh is grass, and may have grounds for asserting that the man who eats it is renewing the greenness as well as the vigor of his youth.

We knew Houston had lots of mosquitoes and other bad things, but we are surprised that a 15-year-old lad would desert the Bayou City for service in the European war.

H. J. Canfield lived a long and useful life, rearing a large family of sons and daughters who have likewise developed into useful citizens. He was a pioneer in McLennan county and as such had a part in shaping its destiny and developing it into one of the best counties in the state.

Dallas has promised a certified check for $100,000, a convention hall with a seating capacity of 25,000 and other adequate accommodations for all who may care to attend the sessions of the democratic national convention, as an inducement to bring that big gathering there next summer.

MIND DETERMINES WHAT MAN WILL BE

Rev. G. J. Rousseau occupies the pulpit at the First Baptist church yesterday morning and preached an unusually strong sermon on the potentiality of right thinking. The preacher took for his text Philippians 4:8: "Whatsoever things are true; whatsoever things are honest; whatsoever things are just; whatsoever things are pure; whatsoever things are lovely; whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

It is a well established fact, declared the preacher, that whatever a man thinks, so he is. Our thoughts determine what we are and we are responsible for our thoughts to God. No great success is possible in business or social life without control of thought. Therefore Paul, in his letter to the Philippians, Paul who was a philosopher and a scholar and who had ever thought of him, would up his summary with the words, "Think on these things."

Man can determine the quality of his thinking, and his actions are results of this thought. Meditation then is the beginning of right thought. A talented man, brother, whatever things are true, think on them. Thought and the resulting actions built upon falsehood must crumble.

The true Christian will, as far as possible, clear his mind of untruth and right meditation. He will lay the foundation for his life, predicated on truth. If one's thoughts are true, or are of things untrue, then one's nature and actions must be impure.

Speaking of honesty, the preacher referred to the man who does not pay his just debts. The man who beats a debt does so because of dishonest thinking.

Of justice, he said unless a man brings justice to others into his thinking, then all other things fail. He must regulate his thoughts relating to others, as to his own. He must have a right attitude toward the legislative and judiciary branches of the government are based upon this sort of thinking. Any Christian jury that thinks justly toward its fellow man will render justice.

One must think on things that are pure. A man must be careful that no impure thought creep into his mind. This is difficult in these days of newspapers and magazines. The speaker, "that if people thought rightly there would be nothing improper in our current literature." He declared that in his business career he had found that the laws of supply and demand control. Fifth in literature is demanded, or it would not be. If Christian people would not allow filthy reading matter to enter their homes, such literature would disappear.

Thinking on beautiful things—Urged. Think on things that are beautiful. Mothers should particularly have beautiful thoughts. The speaker then told of numerous cases in history of pre-natal influence.

The thoughts that come when man's mind is passing, he is really thinking of nothing in particular, just before he relapses in slumber, or when sitting comfortably after a strenuous day the thoughts that then creep into the brain are the guiding thoughts of his future actions. These thoughts tell his character.

Psychologists say the sensitive nerves become responsive more and more to repeated sensations. Finally they remain in a constant repetition of these sensations and habit is formed. So it is in thinking. Could thoughts be guided when young, were attention given to teaching the young to control their thinking, they could be easily molded. After a man is twenty-five he ceases to be plastic. It is only by a miracle that he is changed. This miracle is worked, sometimes as in the cases of conversion to Jesus Christ, it is a miracle. And never after a man has changed his life, changed his very being to accord with the teachings of Christianity is he free from the constant struggle against past habits and methods of living.

Thoughts Determine Position. The preacher then pointed to great men in commercial, business and scientific lines who have done great things by constantly thinking along certain endeavor. His most beautiful illustration was that of Milton, who wrote "Paradise Lost." It was the clear mind of the man, who when sent through Europe by his father, returned home uncontaminated by the things of the day that were considered quite proper.

In speaking of the fashions of modern days, the speaker referred to the thoughts of the men who created styles in women's dress that led others to follow. He thought wrongly, and resulted in much of the social sin of the present time.

Lastly, the speaker said that man's thoughts determine his place in the spiritual world, and made a strong plea for religious thought. He wrote "Paradise Lost." It was the clear mind of the man, who when sent through Europe by his father, returned home uncontaminated by the things of the day that were considered quite proper.

Hair to Start Campaign. Temple, July 11.—Fur will be inaugurated at an early date by numerous aspirants for the seat in congress so comfortably filled by Congressman R. L. Henry of the Eleventh district for the last twenty years.

An avowed candidate is Hon. William W. Hair of Temple, successful attorney, who canvassed the district several years ago and gave Congressman Henry the scare of his political life. The most supreme efforts prevented the latter's dethronement by the Bell county man.

Mr. Hair will get into the race again and will make formal announcement of his intentions some time during August. In the meantime, his friends over the district are losing no time perfecting preliminary organizations.

TRUTH, NOT A SIGN

Rev. H. H. Street, pastor of the Provident Heights Baptist church, took as his text yesterday Matthew xii. 38-39, "Certain of the scribes and Pharisees said, Master, we would see a sign from thee. But he answered, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given it." He said in part:

"The world still demands a sign; and there shall no sign be given it. Truth is the need, not signs. The demand itself is of a wicked heart. If the devil can approach the cause of God from within, he is effective. So long as the demands and approaches of wickedness are in our midst, the cause of Christ is in no danger. But evil begins its demands of God's people often times by a kind of hue and cry on the part of the populace, and it is remarkable how soon the church people themselves take them up, and call for signs. And when the demands of evil begin to come from within, things are in a bad way."

"Let me call attention to some practical problems that prevent 'You are not producers.' 'No red-blooded man wants to be a mere consumer. This thing threatens the ministry. A talented brother, some years since, left his work as a drummer and a fine salary and began to preach. His success seemed brilliant. But in a few years he was again a drummer. He had no other work, and the positions for preachers are needed by them who seem unable to make a good living, so I leave it with them. He said the demands of the world and more especially from thoughtless churchmen, were such that he could not do what he felt sure should be done, nor be to accumulate much time and energy meeting demands."

"Paul found 'demands' being made upon the ministry. He rebukes them severely. One of the outcries has been against the expense of the church. It was so with the apostles, and remains to this day. After all that the preacher can do the people complain of the expense. Suppose the Levites of old had quit God's instructions, demanded equal share with the other tribes, and served Jehovah as a 'side line'?"

"Then so hath God ordained that they who preach the gospel should live off the gospel. No man's notion can contravene that. Levites were not, in the ordinary sense, 'producers' but they were in their fault. It is Jehovah's command."

"Our social structure and standards emphasize this demand. And call the louder for it. 'Show us signs.' Men who have had no such training as preachers have been doing things. Merchants are adding to their establishments annually. Manufacturers enlarge constantly. Professional men accumulate handsomely. But the poor preacher remains upon the charities of the people."

"Such remark was made in the presence of a distinguished lawyer, and a minister about a certain preacher. 'That preacher gets $5000 per year. That is too much money for any church to give to one man when the world needs it so much.' The lawyer said: 'I was a classmate of that man. In everything he is a superior man to me. My law practice is easily $20,000 per year. Suppose he had gone into 'business'—I consider he is paying not less than $15,000 per year for the privilege of preaching.'"

"But preachers are disturbed, and some rendered less efficient, by this thing. This demand gives rise to other things. Churches should be taxed. Why not tax the courthouses? Why not tax the parks? The schools? The church, and especially the preacher, had a mighty hand in 'producing' them all."

"Second, this problem: 'You deal in unrealities. You are visionary.' Now it may be true 'Man is a religious animal,' but practically the 'business' of his religion is surely a side line. The world demands his all. To make him sensible of the present reality of spiritual things, is the task of the church, by means of the preacher."

"A certain successful business man said to a preacher who had engaged with him for the time: 'If you forget religion, and go full length into this, you will be rich. This vile world is no friend to grace.'"

"There are two 'almighties' spoken of, God and the $$. Six days are utterly consumed in the service of the one, and sixty minutes of the other given to the other. And, with what mental alertness and personal force, judge ye. Have you not heard him come from that bare sixty minutes saying, 'He didn't grip me, somehow.'"

POWER OF GOSPEL SHOWN IN WORKINGS

L. A. COULTER, STATE Y. M. C. A. SECRETARY, SO TELLS MEETING AT CRYSTAL THEATRE.

Text from Paul's statement.

Young Men Urged to Accept Christ. Even if Cannot Understand All Things.

Pleading with men to accept the teachings of their own eyes when they see the workings of the Gospel in the lives of their associates, L. A. Coulter of Dallas, state secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, delivered the first of a series of religious addresses to men at the Crystal theatre yesterday afternoon.

An old-fashioned song service preceded the address of Mr. Coulter, which was developed from the text, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ."

Secretary S. R. Hankins of the local Y. M. C. A., who was in charge of the services, announced that similar meetings would be held in the Crystal theatre each Sunday afternoon during the summer. Use of the theatre has been donated by J. A. Lemke, the manager. It was announced that Judge Tom L. McCullough would be the speaker at the services next Sunday afternoon.

Contemplating the history of great men makes one wish to have been able to see and hear them, said Mr. Coulter, who referred to the lives of Napoleon and Washington. "Of all the great men, the greatest mere man, whom I would rather have seen and heard than any other, is the Apostle Paul," he continued. "I would rather have heard him when he said, 'I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ.'"

"Gospel" means "good news," continued the speaker, "and the Gospel does not gather around the sayings of one man or the philosophy of a set of men, but is built around the personality of Jesus Christ. Paul had two reasons why he was not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ. The first was he believed in the fact of sin. He believed that sin entered into the life of man had injured him physically, mentally and morally. Paul had another reason: believing in the fact of sin, Paul believed in the fact of Jesus Christ. Paul believed in the Jesus Christ who worked the miracles, he believed in the Jesus Christ who was crucified and whom the grave could not hold; he believed in the Jesus Christ, who set at naught the laws of gravity and ascended into Heaven. Paul believed that acceptance of Jesus gives power to break away from sin."

"There are some things in the Gospel that we cannot understand," continued Mr. Coulter, "but we can believe. We cannot understand electricity, but we can believe in it when we see the electric light, the motor and the other uses. I have seen the Gospel take a drunkard out of the gutter and put him on the rock of sobriety. We have all seen the power of the Gospel of Christ working in the lives of our associates. I plead with you to believe the evidence of your eyes and accept Jesus."

GAME RALLY BY THE NAVIGATORS WINS

BUNCH HITS IN NINTH AND TENTH—BEAT GASSERS BY SCORE OF 3 TO 2.

GRUBB STARTS THE EFFORT

With Score Two to Nothing His Single Opens the Attack—Tanner and Coyle Perform.

Shreveport, July 11.—With the score 2 to 1 in favor of Shreveport, with two out in the ninth and two strikes on Wohleben, the big crowd thought it was all over. Wohleben didn't. The big Teuton threw a heart-disease scare into the departing fans and caused them to sit down again when he hit the ball over the fence—not over a yard foul. Just when the rooters had recovered from this scare and were congratulating themselves on the narrowness of their escape, the big first baseman caught one of McLeod's fast ones on the nose and it sailed over second base, a clean single which scored Jesse James with the tying run. A slashing double by Crichlow in the tenth broke up the tie and returned the locals losers.

It was a great game. Great in pitching, in fielding, in close plays—in fact, such a game as is worth many dollars to a club when played on a Sunday. The only drawback was that the locals failed to win—but the Naves won it cleanly and were entitled to it.

The fielding of Kneaves and Tanner was of the sensational sort. The two shortstops accepted twenty-three chances between them, some of almost impossible proportions, yet neither bobbled in the least. Kneaves had ten assists. Neither side made an error.

The Navigators apparently were at McLeod's mercy for the first seven innings, being unable to hit him in the pinches. But in the eighth Grubb started the ninth with a clean single to right. Kelly batted for Donalds, but fled out to left. Grubb showed a great piece of base running when he went from first to third. McLeod handled and made the play to center. Grubb, who was away to a hit and run play, rounded second and went on to third, beating the throw from Schmeider to catcher. Grubb then came through with a pinch hit and Grubb scored.

Jesse James opened the ninth with a single to center. Walters sacrificed. Conwell, batting for Malmquist, grounded out. James taking third.

Then sent the crowd back to their seats with his drive over second.

In the tenth singles by Tanner and Coyle and a long double to center by Crichlow broke up the tie. Coyle also tried to score on the play, but a perfect relay by Murphy to Kneaves to Smith caught him. Crichlow took third on the play, but died there.

Shreveport scored in the second on an infield out by Smith. The other Gasser run came in the fourth when Barry, Smith, and Kneaves scored on a sacrifice single to left and scored when Durkin hit to Tanner. The shortstop tried for a double, getting hit at second but losing Durkin at first.

Martina Injures Ankle in Sliding
Beaumont, July 11.—Joe Martina, star pitcher of the Oilers, may be out of the game for several days owing to an injury he received to his ankle in the third inning of today's game when he slid into first base to avoid colliding with Newnam. Although experiencing considerable pain, he finished the game.

CLOTHIER LOSES TO BEHR.
New York, July 11.—The chances of William J. Clothier, the former national champion and internationalist, making the singles cup his own in the final of the tournament on the turf of the Nassau Country club at Glen Cove, L. I., last night, were set back today when he lost to Kahl H. Behr 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

The important feature of the match, which stands as the first top-class victory of Behr for the season, is the fact that its result justifies his rating as third in the national list and above Clothier. Behr, by his victory, holds the cup for the first time.

Band Concert Given at Cameron Park

The cool greenery of Cameron park and the band concert attracted large numbers of Wacoans to the city's beauty spot yesterday afternoon. Many parties took their lunches with them and enjoyed picnic supper on the sward, while young people wandered, mostly in pairs, up and down the shady paths all the time the band was playing.

Especially applause greeted the vocal numbers rendered, while the selections, rendered by the Bettis band, seemed to please those gathered around to listen. The program was given as printed in the newspapers several days ago.

Seley Park Matter to be Presented to Water Board Tonight

Delegations from Colonial Hill and North Waco will present petitions signed by residents of all sections of the city to the city water commission at the meeting tonight, asking that the site of the old open reservoir at Eighteenth and Bosque Boulevard be set aside for park purposes, making possible the acceptance by the city of the offer of W. W. Seley to buy the remainder of the block on which the reservoir site is situated, and donate to the city, the whole to be made into a park and named C. M. Seley park in honor of Mr. Seley's father.

A committee of forty-four men, with their wives, residents of the Colonial Hill neighborhood, were named at a mass meeting several days ago to present the petitions to the water commission and urge that the land be donated. At a similar meeting in North Waco several nights ago, a call was issued for all residents of the neighborhood to meet at Dr. Bell's drug store at 7:30 tonight and go in a body to the meeting of the water commission, where acceptance of Mr. Seley's offer will be urged. The North Waco delegation will be headed by Dr. Bell, Dr. Morrison, Colonel Bill Poage and Judge George N. Denton. Judge John N. Lyle is chairman of the Colonial Hill committee.

Festival Broken Up at Chalk Bluff by Shooting Scrape

A negro festival at the Chalk Bluff negro school house on the Fort Graham road was rudely broken up about 9:45 Saturday night when Fred Jenkins, 25 years old, shot John Lee, 50 years old, three times. Dr. Elliott of Elm Mott attended the old negro and said that he might recover.

Deputy Sheriffs Fred Oliver and John Morgan went to the scene of the shooting Saturday night, but Jenkins had fled. It was reported that he had married Lee's daughter recently, and that domestic trouble was the cause of the shooting. Jenkins was captured yesterday morning, however, and was placed in the county jail.

HENRY J. CAUFIELD DIES AT MCGREGOR

PROMINENT McLENNAN COUNTY PIONEER PASSES AWAY AT AGE OF 88 YEARS.

IDENTIFIED WITH EARLY HISTORY

Four Children, Seventeen Grand Children and Two Great-Grand-Children Survive.

With the death of Henry J. Caufield, who died at the age of 88 years at 1:20 yesterday afternoon, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Cavitt, at McGregor, passed away one of the oldest and most honored of the remaining settlers of McLennan county who had an active part in shaping a wilderness into a prosperous and well-governed state. Mr. Caufield came to Texas by boat from New Orleans to Galveston in 1846 with the first party of immigrants after the state was admitted to the Union. He settled in Robinson county, but moved to the banks of the South Bosque, sixteen miles from Waco, four years later, where he engaged in the business of cattle raising, which he followed up to the time of his retirement, fifteen years ago. Mr. Caufield had been ill for the last two or three years, during which time he resided with his daughter at McGregor. A fall sustained last year broke his hip, from the effects of which he never fully recovered.

Taking an active interest in affairs of the common good, Mr. Caufield early became identified with the public interests of the rapidly shaping county of McLennan. At the time when he settled on the South Bosque, only four small houses occupied the ground where Waco now stands. Small garden patches about the four houses made up all the cultivated lands of the section, that later became McLennan county, with its thousands of acres of rich farming lands.

Living apart from the city, Mr. Caufield was able to more thoroughly view its development, and his interest in its progress was shown by the fact that he was one of the organizers of the Citizens National bank, of which he was director for twenty-five years. He represented his district as county commissioner when Judge G. B. Gerald was county judge, during the 70's.

Mr. Caufield was born in Green county, Alabama, Jan. 21, 1827, of native Irish parentage. He was married Nov. 15, 1856, to Martha Jones, daughter of Aquilla Jones, a neighboring cattleman who lived on Harris' present site. Seven children were born to the couple, as follows: Mrs. J. A. Clifton, Waco, deceased; W. W. Caufield, McGregor; T. A. Caufield, Waco; Mart C. Caufield, McGregor, deceased; J. F. Cavitt, McGregor; George H. Caufield, McGregor; Minnie Dee Caufield, McGregor, deceased. Mr. Caufield lived to see seventeen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mr. Caufield was a Knight Templar, and a member of Waco lodge No. 92, A. F. & A. M., for the greater part of his life in the county. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church of McGregor. His wife died March 13, 1906.

Funeral services will take place at 6 o'clock this evening at Harris' cemetery, where the burial will be made. The Rev. Julian Sleeper, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of McGregor, will officiate, assisted by Dr. C. T. Caldwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Waco. Assisting him in handling the youngsters were Messrs. Phil Brown, an athlete from Waco, and college Newton Lacy of Waco and Eddie Austerhulch.

"The boys are members of a boxing club instructed by Mr. Wilson, who has coached athletics a number of years in the east. He coached the Waco High school basketball team last year and is well acquainted with the members of the fast Crawford Hi quintette."

"The boys enjoyed the outing greatly and in spite of the fact that they did comparatively little fishing had several fish feasts."

"Those in the party besides the leaders were R. L. Henry, Jr., Allen D. Sanford, Jr., Billy Colgin, George Edw. Armstrong, Charles Clisbee, Tommy Westbrook, Charles Eubank, Alde Fort, Desha Patton, Don Hicks, John V. Powers, Curtis Douglas, Millard Lincon, Louis Drake, Kyle Drake."

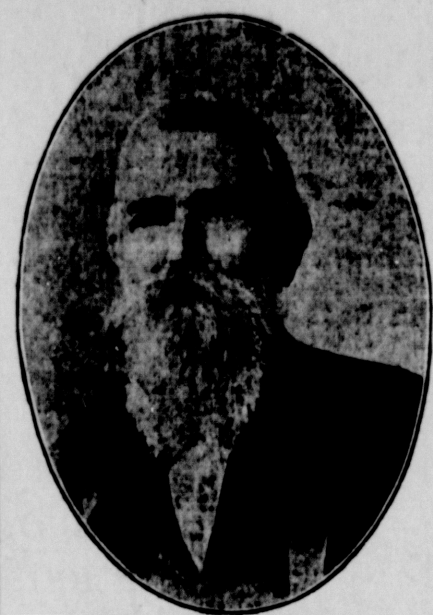

"On Thursday Mrs. W. W. Cameron of Waco chartered the members of the Blue Bonnets, girls' club of Waco, for a noon dinner at the camp. The cook spread himself in an effort to do the occasion justice and was successful according to all reports."

Further boys stated that no better treatment could be accorded them than that extended by the Brown family."

Christian Endeavor Union Meeting Held

Christian Endeavorers from all the Waco societies met at the Second Presbyterian church last night for a union meeting. The program, which began at 8 o'clock, consisted of songs by the various societies, music, short, inspirational talks and a brief address by Rev. J. J. Grier, of the entertaining church, on "What the Christian Endeavor Means to the Pastor and the Church."

Unusual Musical Program at Cozy

Few moving picture houses in the country can boast of any finer bill than that offered by the Cozy today and tomorrow. Not only is the picture, "The Heart of Maryland," an unusual feature with Mrs. Leslie Carter as the star, but the musical program is one strong in all of its details.

For several years Alessandro's band has been a prime favorite in Waco, and the fact that Prof. Alessandro will have his full band and render a program of some of the best music ever written, augurs well for the opening. The program is an admirably selected one, and each number on it has appealed to music lovers all over the country, many of them all over the civilized world.

And then the fact that one of Waco's own prima donnas is to sing adds greatly to the attractiveness of the program. Miss Bettie Maye Hill is a lyric soprano of more than passing note. She is the daughter of Prof. and Mrs. R. H. Hill and returned only recently from Europe, having studied under Jean de Reske in Paris, where she was a soloist at St. Luke's. Miss Hill also studied under the famous Sabatini at Milano, Italy.

Sabatini said, "You have a beautiful voice and are capable of doing many things." Madame Nelma, soprano for the La Scala Opera company, Milano, said, "I am glad people like your voice. I think it is most beautiful." A. Bee of Paris said: "Miss Hill's voice is a voice that is hearing grows beautiful and more beautiful."

The musical program for tonight is as follows:

1. Grand march from "La Profete"
2. Waltz, "Cecile".....F. W. McKee
3. Grand selection from "Tannhauser".....Wagner
4. Selection from "Spring Meadow".....H. Heinhart
5. Intermezzo, "Puppchen".....J. Gilbert
6. Vissi de Arte ed Amore from "Tosca".....F. W. McKee
7. Grand selection from "Lucia de Lammermoor".....Donizetti
8. Hungarian Dance No. 5.....Brahms

MARRS' DEATH RESULT OF FALL FROM AUTO

THREE BOYS WHO REPORTED FINDING BODY ADMIT BEING IN CAR AT TIME.

CORROBORATION IS FOUND

Labe Dillon, Said to Have Been Driving Machine, Denies Story Entirely.

That C. F. Marrs came to his death about 1:30 yesterday morning by falling from an automobile driven by Labe Dillon, was the verdict of the special coroner's jury empaneled by Justice J. J. Padgett yesterday afternoon. Three boys, Ed O'Connell, aged 13; Claud Harris, aged 19, and Ross Adams, who telephoned to the city hall the first notice of the death of the man, and who stated at first that they had found him while on their way home, testified before the coroner's jury that they were riding in the automobile with Marrs and Dillon, and that after Marrs had fallen off the running board on which he was standing, they endeavored to get Dillon to stop the machine, which he refused to do. He, however, slowed up, and the three boys leaped off, while Dillon kept on. The boys stated that when they found the man in a dying condition, they thought the best way out of it would be to tell the story that they were on their way home when they found the man. Dillon denied that Marrs was in his automobile, saying he had not been on North Fifth street near 1:30 yesterday morning. He denied that he had been with the three boys. Marrs was buried yesterday afternoon. No charge was filed against Dillon.

The pattern of the weave of Marrs' straw hat impressed on a telephone pole discovered yesterday morning near where his body was found, with the testimony of the three boys in the automobile with Dillon and Marrs, established the manner in which Marrs met his death. Hanging from the side of the automobile, standing on the running board, his head struck the telephone pole as the car swerved in to the curb, striking with force enough to crush the skull and make a perceptible dent in the pole. In this dent was plainly to be seen the pattern of the straw of the hat, impressed into the wood by the force of the blow.

Answering questions at the coroner's inquest yesterday afternoon, Ed O'Connell, who lives at 1019 West avenue, made the following statement: "I, Ross Adams, and Claud Harris were at the Eagles' club last night (Saturday) at a dance. We three came down the steps together, where we met Mr. Dillon. He said to go out in his car. We all got on the car. Claud Harris on the left running board and C. F. Marrs on the right running board. Dillon drove the car, and went out North Fifth street at about 25 miles an hour. About the 1100 block the car edged near the sidewalk, and kept getting closer."

"I heard a bump, and about a block farther Harris said that Marrs had fallen off. We tried to get Dillon to stop, but he refused to do so. Dillon finally slowed up, and I, Ross Adams and Claud Harris got off. Dillon kept going. We went back and found Marrs about three blocks back. We asked three negroes who passed where we could find a telephone, and then went into the house at 1111 North Fifth and telephoned the police. The automobile was a two-passenger machine. The accident happened about 1:15 or 1:30 this (Sunday) morning."

Labe Dillon, testifying before the coroner's jury, said: "C. F. Marrs when he was killed, I was not in my car. I was out on North Fifth street about 8 o'clock Saturday night. I was not with Ed O'Connell, Ross Adams and Claude Harris. Marrs was not in my car Saturday night. I was at the Eagles' club, but left not later than 10:35. I know nothing about how Marrs was killed."

"I was Adams, who lives at 627 Garland avenue, testified: "I rode on the left running board of the automobile. Dillon was running his car. He went to the car and we passed Washington street, then let her out. The car turned in toward the curb in the 1100 block. When we tried to get Dillon to stop he said, 'To hell with him.' Dillon finally slowed up and we got off."

The testimony of Ross Adams, 314 North Fourth street, corroborated the testimony of O'Connell and Harris. The three boys admitted being in the automobile when Marrs met his death, after being questioned by Chief of Police Guy McNamara yesterday. They said that after they had jumped off the automobile and gone back and found that Marrs was in a dying condition, they thought it best to tell that they had found him while walking along the street on their way home. Their statements to Chief McNamara were repeated at the coroner's inquest yesterday afternoon.

Dillon, who is proprietor of the Brazos Boiler and Machine works, and lives at 1125 Mary street, was questioned by Chief McNamara, and made practically the same denials as were repeated in his testimony before the coroner's jury. Dillon claimed that he was in East Waco at 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

Negro is Arrested for Crime Committed Three Months Ago

"All right, boss, I'll go to Waco, but please don't let no mob git me," said Roy Mitchell, negro, when arrested yesterday by Constable Leslie Stegall and Deputy Constable Phil Hobbs, on a farm between Riesel and Mart. Mitchell is charged with being one of the negroes who held up George Enoch, a storekeeper at Tekla switch, on the I. & G. N., about three months ago.

Enoch was shot by one of the robbers, a mob was formed and the two negroes disappeared. Mitchell told the robbery occurred, when questioned yesterday, but would not disclose the name of the other negro. He said that it was "the other negro," who shot Enoch, robbed him of $130 and some tobacco, and suggested that they "had better run," that the mob was after them.

Mitchell seemed rather relieved to be in jail, and his voice trembled every time he spoke of "the mob bunch."
